Dedicated e-mail announcements to a highly targeted managed care and health management audience

HealthExecwire delivers one news release daily via e-mail to a targeted audience of health management professionals. HealthExecwire offers timely company news releases on such topics as new products and publications, conferences, webinars, and other programs and services.

HealthExecwire limits the frequency of releases to no more than once a day on business days only, so that subscribers are not over-saturated with market information. We protect subscriber e-mail addresses with our privacy policy, make it easy to unsubscribe, and proactively ensure our entire subscriber database is maintained with valid addresses. Thus subscribers respond positively to HealthExecWire releases, and look to us as a trusted source for information on new products, services, programs and events.

Almost 30,000 professionals in the managed care and related health care sectors subscribe to HealthExecWire for free. All releases are also archived on the web, for public use and helping to provide ongoing search engine results when professionals are surfing on your topic. HealthExecWire can provide open tracking and click through data for your release upon request.

Get big results at a very cost effective price with HealthExecWire!
